

The new trimmer from Purple Cows is two paper cutters in one.

I've been on the lookout for a paper trimmer that's both substantial and portable. The Purple Cows 2-in-1 Cutter caught my eye because the guillotine and rotary cutters are separate, so I can take the smaller trimmer when I'm on the go. And the guillotine cutter has a safety blade that won't cut fingers and never needs sharpening. The metal platform easily fits 12x12" paper (even larger if the trimmers are separated), is marked with common photo sizes for quick trimming, and keeps the paper in place with a lock-down feature for perfectly straight cuts. People have asked why both blades are necessary. In my view, it's both productive and convenient to have as many cutting options as you can from a single trimmer.
